

Snip, Snip, Hooray!

Getting your pets spayed or neutered can be very beneficial to their health and well being.

It has been shown that regardless of gender, spaying or neutering your pets comes with several medical benefits. This procedure reduces your animal's chance of falling victim to diseases, including uterine infections and certain cancers. By getting your pet spayed or neutered you protect them from these ailments and contribute to a longer and healthier life.

Spaying and neutering can also have behavioural benefits. Females in heat can exhibit erratic behaviour. Cats in particular tend to howl and urinate more frequently in hopes of attracting a male. With male cats and dogs, not only are they likely to leave their mark all over the house, they will also often roam or attempt to escape your home to find a mate. Spaying and neutering can help fix some of these behavioural traits and in turn help prevent any un-planned litters.

Although puppies and kittens are certainly adorable, an unplanned litter can put stress and pressure on an owner and can also contribute to our current overpopulation crisis.

Spay and neuter services are available at your local Veterinary Clinic.
Costs are determined by each Clinic.
