County of Brant has Launched a COVID-19 Economic Response Webpage

County of Brant, ON – The County of Brant has launched a new webpage named Brant Works Together (www.brant.ca/BrantWorksTogether) to support local businesses through the evolving health emergency of COVID-19.

“Local businesses are facing many challenges as we combat COVID-19 together,” said Russell Press, Director of Economic Development and Tourism for the County of Brant. “We want our business community to know that we are here to support you. It is incredible to see local businesses stepping up to help the community and each other. You are a testament to Brant’s character.”

The County of Brant’s webpage offers a number of resources for the business community including:

- Celebrating local businesses who are giving back to the community
- #ShopLocalBrant opportunities (online, delivery, pick up etc.)
- News specific for businesses
- A number of business and financial resources
- Development Service business continuity
- Brant County Health Unit - Health Updates

The 'Business Continuity Survey' is also available online and will collect essential data on our business community. This information will assist in the development and delivery of support moving forward. Help us understand the business community’s top priorities and needs and together, find solutions.

The web page is intended to be a gathering place for a variety of industries and businesses within Brant; whether it’s a small business, a large manufacturer, a home based business, a developer or an agricultural operation.

“The County of Brant is very fortunate to have such valuable and capable stakeholders within our community and across our network of organizations and industry professionals,” said Press. “We invite our industry and business partners across all sectors and fields to make as much use of this web page as possible, to share their stories and operational information and to complete the business continuity survey so we can continue to develop our ability to provide support that is appropriate and of value.”
